

Mr. Paul W. Brager, Jr MS, CISSP, CISM is an executive-level security professional with 20 years of deep technical and business experience in information/cyber security, with more than half coming specifically from within the O&G and Petrochemical industry. Currently he is a Cyber Security Program Manager and Cyber Energy Practice Lead (O&G) with Booz Allen Hamilton, helping energy clients solve cyber security challenges, and helping clients position for 21st century cyber threats. Previously accountable for security architecture, risk assessment and cyber threat intelligence at Marathon Oil Company, Paul's areas of expertise/interest include digital forensics, cyber threat intelligence and security program design, having worked in both the public and private sector over his 20 year career. A graduate of Texas A&M University (Bachelors) and the University of Phoenix (Masters), Paul is currently pursuing a doctoral degree in Cyber Security, with a program focus in cyber threat intelligence and nation-state cyber terrorism. Paul's time away from the bits and bytes include his love for fishing, live music with the love of his life and family, and his ever-present quest for cooking the perfect smoked brisket and ribs.
